March 2018

January saw us traveling to Chiang Mai, Thailand for an international conference for Ethnos360 southeast Asia leadership teams. Connecting again with our many partners is always a special treat and this was no exception. Delegates from 18 countries made up from 15 different nationalities attended. Many thought-provoking presentations and a series of formal and informal meeting times meant a pretty intense schedule.

Delving into some of the areas that go into forming worldview.

It was so good to meet up again with some of our Singapore team!

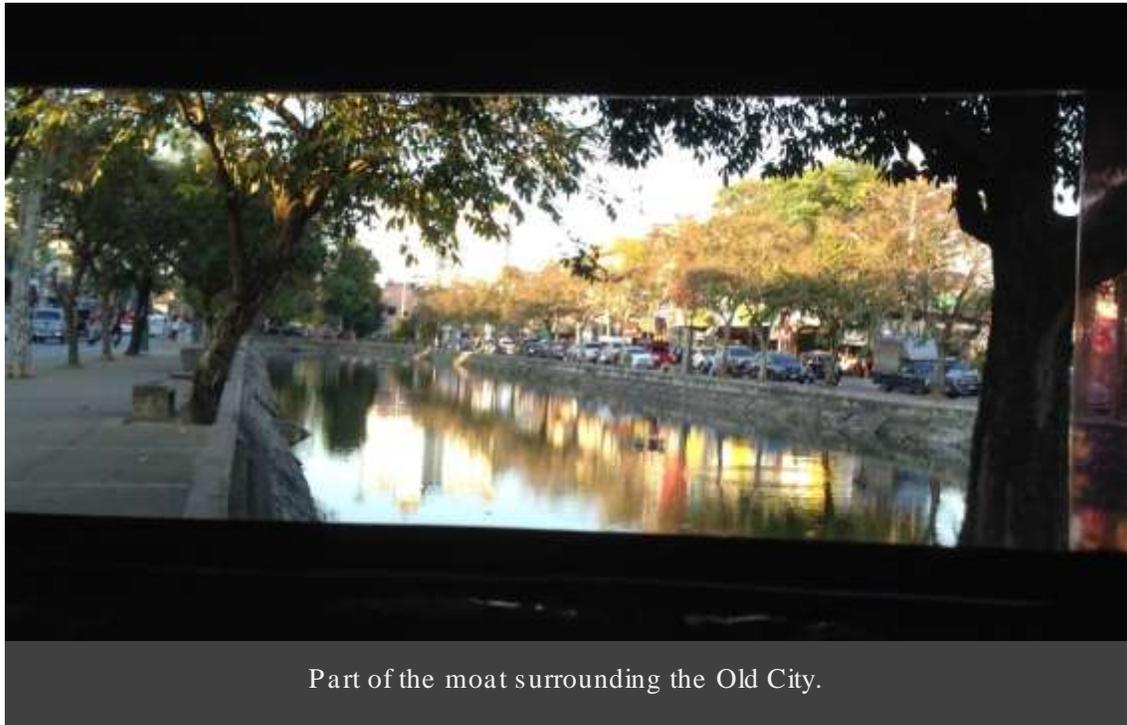

There was a large representation from our former “home” country Indonesia!

The city of Chiang Mai is an interesting city. The original old city is surrounded by a square wall which was built in the 13th century, some of which is still standing. The wall is surrounded by a moat.

Part of the original wall, over 700 years old.

Part of the moat surrounding the Old City.

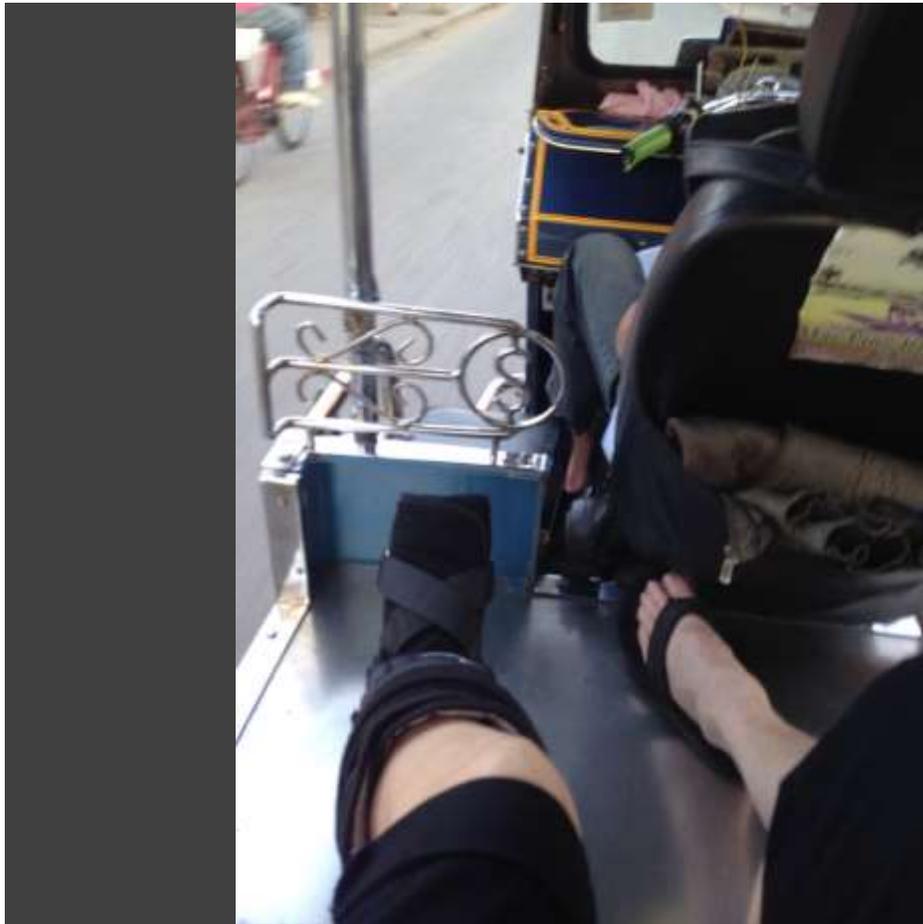

Though Cherri's broken toe caused her some pain and discomfort especially on the long flights, she did pretty well. Thank you to those who prayed for her. She couldn't do sight-seeing or shopping (happy face from me!) but we did get out a couple of times.

This "songtau" was one form of transportation we used.

A "tuk-tuk" was the other. And this particular one was pretty fancy!

Much easier to ride a "tuk-tuk" than to walk when you're wearing a boot-cast.

Six weeks after the fracture, Cherri had another x-ray because of on-going symptoms. That x-ray showed "no evidence of any healing"! So she continues to wear the boot-cast when on her feet. She'll have another x-ray in two weeks. Symptoms remain the same. Please pray that the fracture will start healing.

February saw us hunting for a new home. We had hoped to find somewhere large enough to accommodate Cherri's father along with us and also close enough to the facility where Cherri's mom stays. That plan didn't work out but plan B did as we searched and found an apartment just five minutes from dad.

We hope to move into the apartment soon. Our church has been SO gracious allowing us to stay here in their missionary apartments longer than is normal, but all good things come to an end, as they say! Our new place is small but much closer to Cherri's father which is our main concern. Many of our wonderful friends have been donating furnishings to get us started so we are being showered with blessings. The only drawback is that we have not been given a firm move-in date yet and we must leave here March 30th. The clock is ticking. Please pray we can move ASAP!

April 12th I leave for the Philippines, where I'll first head to northern Luzon to meet with several teams there. After that it's back down to Manila for a short time before starting the journey home on April 24th. Pray for safety, good health, wisdom and that I and the team can be a blessing. And, as always, please pray for Cherri as she stays behind. We always appreciate your prayers for her parents' health, and for our kids David and Jodi and their families. I'll have two weeks at home before heading off to — well, more about that next time!

We value and thank you for your prayers and gifts. Let us know how we can pray for you!
